

CBI
Ministry of Foreign Affairs

Exporting vascular system products to Europe

Opportunities exist for natural ingredients aimed at supporting the vascular system and preventing vascular health problems. An ageing, overweight and inactive European population has higher risks of vascular health problems, while consumer awareness of overall health and wellbeing is growing. Food supplements offer most potential, as product development is highest in this segment and consumers are more familiar with natural health products.