

What is the demand for automotive parts and components in Europe?

Last updated:

04 May 2016

Exporters from developing countries will find opportunities in mature Western European markets, such as Germany, France, Italy and Spain that are characterised by high R&D investments in automotive. Besides the traditional markets, developing country exporters will benefit from growing markets in European countries with both growing production and trade, such as Poland, the Czech Republic and Hungary.